

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 2, 1882.

MAHONISM STRUCK good ground when it fell among the republicans in Congress. The republican Senators adopted it at first sight, and though the House contains but one and a half of its prophets, the republicans therein have already adopted its system of increasing a majority, by following the example set in the Virginia Legislature last winter, when the fairly and legally elected delegates from Rockbridge were ousted and their places given to disciples of the boss. If the doctrine be as progressive as this advance indicates, it is by no means improbable that its tenet regarding the repudiation of public obligations will, as Capt. Blair has advised, be applied to the national as well as to the State debt; it most assuredly will if such means be required to "beat down the democratic party," for according to Mr. Sherman, any thing in law and morals is justifiable that will accomplish that purpose.

Now that the summer has come and strangers are taking in this city on their pleasure excursions, wouldn't it be as well for the City Council to abate somewhat the stringency of the restrictions imposed by the existing Sunday laws. A cigar, a saucer of cream, or a glass of soda water will do no more harm on Sunday than on any other day, and as it is a notorious fact that every resident who wants a glass of liquor on Sunday can get it, there is no good reason why a stranger who visits the city on that day should not be allowed the same privilege. The police are as efficient on Sunday as on any other day in the week, and just as able to suppress disorders that may result from the sale of liquor on that day as on any other day.

THERE is a good deal of newspaper talk about the removal of the remains of Thomas Jefferson from Monticello to Washington. As previously stated by the Gazette's Washington correspondent, all such talk is gable, and is only indulged by people at a loss for other use for their tongues. Everybody who has the remotest legal claim to a voice in the disposition of Mr. Jefferson's remains is perfectly satisfied with their present resting place and utterly opposed to their removal, and as they cannot be removed without the consent of those who have legal control of them, the matter will end as it was begun in the twaddle of those who have nothing else to talk or write about.

THE MAHONISTS say that every man has a right to vote as he pleases. That they are correct in this particular assertion there is no doubt. But, neither is there any doubt that every man has a right to think as he pleases of those who vote as they please. It is the latter proposition that is maintained by the one hundred and ten thousand democratic voters in the State, but that is opposed by the twenty thousand Mahonists.

WHAT a change has come over the spirit of republican dreams in the last few years! During the life of the infamous electoral commission the sanctity of the decisions of returning boards was inviolate, but now when such decisions send Southern democrats to Congress, no more regard is paid to them than if they had never been rendered. But circumstances alter cases.

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that Mr. Finley, of Florida, was elected to Congress by a legal majority of over eleven hundred votes, the republicans of the House took his seat away from him yesterday and gave it to their republican contestant. When the republicans want to obtain a majority or increase it, law and justice constitute no obstacle to the attainment of their purpose.

THE RECENT death of Professor W. B. Rogers is deeply regretted by all the older alumni of the University of Virginia, to the high reputation of which institution he contributed no little.

PEOPLE at all familiar with republican men and measures are not at all surprised that Mr. John Paul should have failed to recognize and realize the benefits of a "free vote and a fair count" until after he had deserted the democratic and joined the republican party.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

Captain A. D. Payne has been re-elected Mayor of Warrenton.

General Fitzhugh Lee is said to oppose Massey for candidate for Congress at large.

Mrs. Margaret Young died in Richmond yesterday, aged 96 years. She was probably the oldest resident of that city.

The harbor masters and flour inspectors of Norfolk received their commissions from Governor Cameron yesterday.

Ex-Auditor Massey is announced to address the people of Rockingham county at Harrisonburg Monday, June 19.

At the municipal election in Waynesboro, the junction of the Shenandoah Valley and Chesapeake and Ohio Railroads, last week, local option won by 128 to 16 against.

The Governor has appointed Jas. T. Peck as one of the members of the Board of Visitors of the Western Lunatic Asylum, vice Delegate Sawyer, of Wythe, resigned.

This is the month of college and school commencements. The exercises of the 106th commencement of Hampden-Sidney College will begin on Sunday, June 11th.

The Chesapeake and Ohio R. R. Co. began work yesterday on their road from Newport News to Old Point. There is very little grading to be done and only one trestle of any length to be built. The road is to be finished in forty-five days. The distance is about nine miles.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Correspondence of the Alex. Gazette.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 2.—The House Committee on War Claims agreed to-day to report a bill giving Mrs. Farr, of New York City, $17,000 for expenses incurred in supplying Union soldiers with food on their passage through that city during the war.

The Attorney-General having stated that further legislation was required to render the eight-hour law effective, several members of Congress from navy-yard and other districts where large numbers of hands are employed by the Government will avail themselves of the first opportunity that is afforded to attempt the enactment of the required legislation.

The Secretary of State is absent and nothing is being done with regard to American affairs in Egypt, all that is definitely known about those affairs being that two American men-of-war have been sent to Alexandria by the Admiral of the Mediterranean fleet, and that the effects of the American Consulate at Alexandria have been attached by an Arab drayman for freight charges amounting to about seven dollars.

The railroad that leads from Washington in the direction of the Eastern Shore of Maryland is being produced, and, it is understood, will soon reach Cherrystone on Chesapeake Bay, near Onancock, in Accomack county. There it will connect by barges with the Norfolk and Western Railroad at Norfolk and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad at Newport News, a distance of about fifteen miles.

A jury having been obtained in the Star route cases, Mr. Bliss opened the Government's side of those cases to-day in the presence of a large number of spectators.

Mr. Keifer is cutting a big swath in Washington by the shut-eyed bullheadedness with which he is carrying out the orders of Mr. Robeson and the republican governing committee, but there are influential republicans engaged in undermining him in his own district and it is doubtful if he will be renominated. The card that is being played against him is the fact that he is the mere puppet of the men who were Garfield's open and avowed enemies.

In the whiskey bill investigation now in progress before a Senate committee General Wharton to-day paid a high tribute to the newspaper correspondents here, testifying to their high standard of honor and intelligence. He said he had been approached by them but only to obtain news for their respective papers, and he had discovered that they knew more about the bill than many of the men who had voted upon it.

The House having ousted Mr. Finley yesterday evening, and taken up the case of Lowe vs. Wheeler, resumed that case to-day, Mr. Thompson, republican of Iowa, leading off in a speech in favor of depriving Mr. Wheeler of his seat. Mr. Lowe, the green-backer, sat on one side of him, and Mr. Wheeler on the other, and one time both had their fingers at the same moment on report he was reading, directing his attention to different sections of it. He was followed by Mr. Mills, of Texas in a set speech, and as every member's mind is "made up" on the question and as no speech has changed a Congressman's mind for the last twenty-five years, there was no disposition to hear it and it was delivered to a slum house.

When the Senate was called to order to-day a note was read from Mr. Davis, president pro tempore, who is sick, requesting Mr. Ingalls, of Kansas, to preside in his stead. Mr. Vest at once objected upon the ground that the president pro tem had no authority to delegate from a distance the duties of the presiding officer of the Senate. This immediately attracted the attention of every member present, and as its pertinence was apparent, several of them commenced talking, as many as five being on the floor at one time, and the disorder being so unusual that Mr. Ransom had to call attention to it and request the clerk to direct that better order be observed. It was by no means a party question for Mr. Hoar offered a resolution that Mr. Ingalls be unanimously elected, and Mr. Ferry and other republicans supported the objection, while Messrs. Hale, Logan, McMillan and others on that side opposed it. Mr. Morgan, democrat of Alabama, also supported it, and said the matter should be settled at once, as nothing human was exempt from vicissitude, and if the President were stricken down to-day, the country would be in a terrible state, if there was any uncertainty respecting the presidency of the Senate, upon the man filling which office would devolve the duties of the presidency of the country. To avoid this danger the Senate adjourned soon after one o'clock until Monday without action on the question thereby avoiding the danger referred to by Mr. Morgan and leaving Mr. Davis's right to the presidency of the Senate undisputed.

Now that both the House and Senate have passed bills appropriating $100,000 for a public building at Lynchburg, all that is wanted to give the people of the hill city a handsome postoffice, court rooms and revenue office is the President's signature, and that they will have as soon as he returns, as Senator Mahone has said he has no objection to the bill provided appropriations be made for similar buildings at Harrisonburg and Abingdon.

The following postmasters were commissioned to-day: C. R. Coffman, Cross Keys, Rockingham co.; W. W. Cropp, Burke's Mills, Augusta co., and H. J. Jennings, Purchase, Scott co., Va.

It is reported to-day that after the green-backers shall have been paid for their effective aid by giving Mr. Lowe the seat which belongs to General Wheeler, the republicans will "let up" a while in their work of ousting democrats, and proceed to the passage of the necessary appropriation bills, and an internal revenue bill, and that they will try to adjourn the session by the 1st of July. They will take up the river and harbor bill on Monday.

The republicans are making such reckless inroads upon the seats on the democratic side of the House that Mr. Barbour, notwithstanding his fair election and large majority, may thank his stars that he got in before the rules were changed, and Mr. Cabell will have to "keep his eyes skint and scratch around lively," as one of the majority said to-day, to save his seat from the clutches of Tony Stovall.

Major Archer of the Potomac Manufacturing Works informed the Gazette's correspondent yesterday morning that the keel of a large wooden vessel would be laid at the new ship yard of his company at Alexandria within the next ten days and that by the time the company is completed the company will commence the construction of iron vessels, the iron to be manufactured at their works near by.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

"To show the very age and body of the Times."

The Repression bill was debated in the British House of Commons yesterday.

Lieutenant Danenhower arrived in Washington yesterday and was given a reception.

Six thousand immigrants arrived at New York Wednesday, making 90,000 during the month of May.

Harris M. Plaisted was nominated for Governor yesterday by the Maine fusion convention.

The partition sale of the Jumel property was continued at New York yesterday, and the historic Jumel mansion and thirty lots surrounding it were disposed of for $45,000 to Nelson Chase.

Baptist General Association.

[Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]
WARRENTON, VA., June 1.—Second day.—The association met at 9:30 this a. m., the President, Dr. Burrows, in the chair.

The delegates seem to be well pleased with their homes and delighted with their hosts. Warrenton is sustaining her enviable reputation for hospitality.

One good result, among many others, to be accomplished by these denominational gatherings is the pleasant exchange of social courtesies among the members of different and differing churches and the opportunities they afford for a better understanding of each other's views and spirits. We seem to come nearer, see clearer and love dearer. Here is another good result: The church with which the association meets is quickened to a lively sense of denominational respectability and to a just and laudable denominational pride. For instance, in many places where the association meets, the house of worship undergoes costly and greatly needed repairs and improvements. Fresh paint, new frescoing, new carpet, &c., meet the eye on every side, and the exterior and interior of their house of worship present an attractive and beautiful appearance—the admiration of all present.

The first business claiming the attention of the association this morning was the report of the Secretary of the minister's relief fund. The figures given showed increased interest and increased contributions. The wants of the needy have been supplied and a balance in the treasury.

At 11 o'clock the annual sermon was preached by Rev. C. H. Ryland, of Richmond, Va., from Eccl. 8, 5, "A wise man's heart discerneth both time and judgment." It was an able, eloquent and practical discourse and was ordered to be published.

After the sermon the Secretary of the Home Mission Board read his report. This board looks after work among the Indians, the Chinese in California and the destitution in many of our Southern States and the West. The churches have responded to the claims of this board with gratifying liberality.

Eloquent and stirring addresses were made by Revs. Nunnally and Campbell, of Georgia, and Dr. Burrows, of Norfolk. The Virginia churches gave $4,000 last year to further the work of this board.

Ministers of other denominations present were invited to seats in the association and to a participation in the deliberations. Rev. Drs. Carter and Paulson, of the Methodist Church; Dr. Pollock, of the Presbyterian Church; and Dr. Nelson, of the Episcopal Church, responded and received the hand of welcome by the President.

Parson Massey is present, and is the liveliest corpse you ever saw. Ex-Governor Smith, past his four-score years, is among us as active as a young man of twenty-five. He hasn't drank a glass of grog for sixty-two years. O. F. F.

Another Democrat Removed.

The republicans of the House of Representatives yesterday succeeded in removing from his seat Mr. Finley the duly elected member from the 2d Florida district and seating Bisbee in his place. The vote was 141 ayes 9 noes.

During the discussion Messrs. Kenna and Cox, of New York, rose respectively to a parliamentary inquiry and a point of order, and a stormy scene ensued which continued for some time. Mr. Cox insisted that he had made a motion to adjourn, which he had never withdrawn, "and," to the Speaker, "you know it."

Mr. Page rose excitedly and demanded that the gentleman from New York should be respectful to the Chair. [Derisive laughter and shouts of "Oh! Oh!" on Democratic side.]

Mr. Cox (to Mr. Page)—You cannot lecture me; you are not Speaker. The Speaker stated that Mr. Cox had withdrawn his motion to adjourn, and that therefore, he had not been entitled to the floor.

Mr. Cox asked to make a statement in reply; but the Speaker stated that he had already made his statement, and that the Chair was willing that the two statements should stand side by side.

Mr. Reed moved to adjourn, and the Speaker proceeded to put the question, notwithstanding Mr. Cox's efforts to be heard. "Well," said Mr. Cox, "that is what I call brute force; mere brute force."

After seating Bisbee, the Republicans proceeded to take up the Lowe-Wheeler case, which will probably be disposed of to-day, if a quorum be on hand.

Egyptian Affairs.

The conference of ambassadors at Constantinople to consider the Egyptian crisis, is regarded as practically settled. The Ottoman commissioner will start for Egypt with out waiting for the conference. Arabi Pacha's military demonstration has been postponed until Saturday. Active military preparations continue. The troops have held meetings demanding that Halim Pacha be proclaimed Khedive.

A despatch from Constantinople says it is authorizedly stated that England has already sounded the Porte as to whether it will be ready to despatch troops to Egypt. France is still opposed to such action.

Labor Strikes.

Twenty thousand iron workers were idle in Pittsburgh yesterday. The fires are drawn in thirty-five of thirty-six mills in that district. The same state of affairs exists at Wheeling and at other Western cities. The strikers demanded higher wages, which the employers stated cannot be paid in the present condition of the iron trade, and they consent that their mills shall be closed until the strikers are willing to return to work at the old wages. The new imported laborers went to work in some of the Cumberland mines yesterday and were not molested.

In the United Presbyterian General Assembly, in session at Monmouth, Ill., yesterday, Dr. Balph presented a protest against the adoption of the majority report on instrumental music in worship, signed by about forty delegates. It was made a matter of record. It was decided to publish an Arabic Bible for the Egyptian mission. Thirty thousand dollars was appropriated for church construction. Pittsburgh was chosen as the place for the next year's meeting, which is the quarter-centennial.

On Monday last the Judge of Fauquier County Court sentenced a man named Poland to confinement in the penitentiary for three years, according to the verdict of the jury, for an attempt to poison a young woman named Hamilton.

To-day's Congressional Proceedings.
SENATE.

At the hour of assembling the acting Secretary read a note from President pro tem. Davis, as follows: "As I shall be absent from the opening of the session this morning, under the provisions of rule 4, I name the Hon. John J. Ingalls, a Senator from the State of Kansas, to perform the duties of the chair until the adjournment to-day."

Mr. Vest made the point that the President pro tem, had not the power to delegate a Senator to take a place which, under the circumstances, could only be filled by or elected by the Senate.

James Rogers suggested that Mr. Ingalls be declared the presiding officer for the day, and after some debate, but without action, the Senate adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.

The House resumed the consideration of the Alabama contested election case of Lowe and Wheeler.

LATER.

The House continued the consideration of the Lowe-Wheeler case Mr. Dingley of Maine, in the chair.

Mr. Horr, of Mich., the champion clown of the republican circus, made a speech of nearly an hour's length, which attracted great attention and frequent applause. It consisted of the old time tirade against tissue ballots, frauds, intimidations, ku-klux and so on which the party which stole the presidency in 1877 always hurled at the South, amid a great many mis-statements. Mr. Horr got in a few really witty remarks, which provoked laughter on both sides, but the most of his speech was a mixture of coarse buffoonery and false statements, which were repeatedly corrected by Mr. Evans, of South Carolina, and Mr. Wheeler, of Ala. Mr. Speer followed, vindicating the fairness of the Elections Committee in the last Congress by reading a list of the republicans they had reported in favor of.

Mr. Wheeler then took the floor in his own behalf but being a very small man physically he mounted a chair and spoke from the perch until he lost his balance and nearly fell, after which he went to the clerk's desk and continued his speech.

Several other employees were injured, but escaped death.

For a number of years he was register of wills of the county, and in 1870, when the treasurer's law was passed, he was elected treasurer of the county, a position which he held up to 1879, when he was elected clerk of the Circuit Court, which position he held at the time of his death.

The session of the Episcopal Convention of the Diocese of Maryland at Washington yesterday, was spent in discussions of questions on which members of the high and the low church differ. The old Standing Committee was re-elected.
